

Learning Spanish in Trinity School EL PUERTO DE SANTA MARIA

El Puerto de Santa María is situated on the Cadiz coast within the Bay of Cadiz, to the south of San Cristóbal mountain range and neighbour to the towns of Sanlúcar de Barrameda, Jerez de la Frontera, Rota, Puerto Real, y Cádiz with a total of some 22 kms of coast. El Puerto de Santa María is renowned for its main tourist attraction, its beaches, which total 16kms of its coast, all are of fine golden sand and are graced with more than 3.000 hours of sunlight per year.

A little of its history:

The town was founded after the Trojan Wars by Menestheo, General of de Athens, settling in the city and naming it El Puerto de Menestheo. Later the Phoenicians and the Greeks were responsible for the increase in commerce through the port. Proof of this fact is the archaeological ruins of Doña Blanca that date from the VIII century B.C. The town was also occupied by Romanas and Visigoths and in the year 711 it was conquered by the Moors in the battle of the Guadalete who renamed the town Alcanatif or Port of the salt mines. In the year 1260 the town was re-conquered by Alfonso X who changed its name to Santa Maria del Puerto. In various works of Alfonso X the town was the protagonist of various miracles of the Virgin Mary. Christopher Columbus chose this town as his residence where he convinced a local merchant to put his boat (La Santa Maria) at his service in which he made his voyage to the new World of America. Great progress was made in the town during the XVI and the XVII centuries with the building of the Royal Boats and housing the headquarters of the Navy. At the end of the XIX century, commerce to the New World had declined and after a number of wars and revolutions the town ceased to expand. In the XX century and thanks to the commerce of the local wine and sherries and of course tourism, the town now a city, began to recover it former glory.

All our teachers have University degrees in Spanish Philology and are guided by the head of studies.

Group programme:

To prepare the programme of the classes the head of studies should receive all the relevant information about the group and the students from the teacher in charge of the group. It is very important that there exists communication between the head of studies and the teacher so all the students special needs are covered. Once the staff have organised the classes ,Trinity School will prepare all the material needed and will present it to each group in function of its levels.

The Activities:

The activity programme varies in function of the budget of the group and the number of weeks, the offer is ample and varied depending on the time of the year.

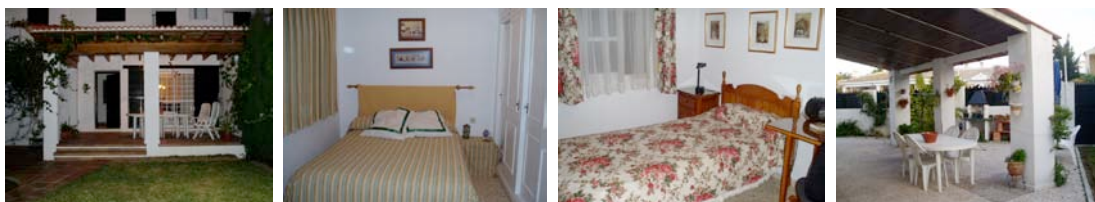

The students, on the day they arrive, receive a folder with all the information about the activities that we are going to do; a brief text accompanied by illustrations (this is included in all courses, for groups or individual). This way, when we do the famous tour of the historical centre of El Puerto de Santa Maria on the first day, the students have had the possibility to read a little about the extensive history of our city, this makes the explanation of the city given by the guide more enjoyably and interesting.

We achieve that the students enjoy all the activities more by letting them know the importance of each place they visit.

The accommodation:

The school groups that study in Trinity School are placed in one of our host families. These families have years of experience that know exactly how to communicate to foreign students and above all, know that during the time spent by the student in their house, the attention must be familiar and friendly, that they must make the student feel as one of the family. The student in turn feels fully participant and integrated and can see that the family makes an enormous effort to make them feel part of the family.

All our accommodation is situated in the same areas, near the school and a maximum of 20 minutes walking distance from the school, this is a basic and fundamental rule of Trinity School. It is very important for us that the accommodation is near, not only for the fact that all our students can go home walking and don't have to use the public transport, but they can reach each others houses easily and without any orientation problem, basically , they don't get lost. This is vital when accommodating our students.

Here are some photos of the houses and rooms that we use to accommodate students. We have many other houses like these and at the moment we have an important number of families having accommodated groups of as small as 12 and as big as 50 students in excellent conditions.

Our host families are in constant contact with Trinity School; having meetings before the arrival of groups or individual students, and once the student is here the families are in constant contact by phone with the school to solve any problems. The host families follow the instructions given to them by the teacher or monitor of the group or the parents. These instructions normally depend on the age of the students.

As for the meals, we pay special attention to the needs of all students whether they be vegetarians or have some type of allergies to certain products, information which has been previously give to us by the teacher, group leader or the parents.

This is an example of a programme that we give to all our families so they know the routine of the group every minute of the day from the day they arrive till the day they leave. Example for one week full board.
